

The World Wildlife Foundation, WWF

Donations will be given to The World Wildlife Foundation, WWF, which is an organization that helps to save many living species and the environment around the world. Scientists help animals. They need money to do research. They help prevent animals from going extinct.

People need to be educated about the environment and animals. We can teach people to respect animals and nature. We need to keep animals out of trouble.

People need to protect the environment, too, so that people and animals can live peacefully together.
